Privacy Policy

Protecting your privacy and personal information is an important issue in conducting our activities. Our privacy policy endorses and supports the Australia Privacy Principles ('APPs') in the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) for the fair and lawful handling of personal information. We, developer and related companies, their consultants and agents, will only collect information directly from you with prior knowledge and consent or in certain cases from third parties, including publicly available sources.

The collected information is only processed or used for the purpose for which it was collected, relevant and reasonable in the circumstances. We will not disclose your personal information to any third party for marketing purposes or whatsoever without your consent except required by Law.
